ABOARD ADMIRAL BARBEY'S FLAGSHIP, OFF THE NORTH CHINA COAST, Nov. 6—

The Red army has thwarted American plans to land Chinese Nationalist forces at the Manchurian port of Yingkow by abandoning it to Chinese Communists.

Chinese Nationalist sources charged that the Soviet garrison deliberately pulled out of Yingkow five days ahead of schedule to permit Chinese Communist troops to fortify it against a Nationalist landing.

The Nationalists said that an agreement negotiated by the central government with the Soviet command Oct. 29 at Hsinking provided for the Red army to remain at Yingkow until Nov. 10 to "guarantee a safe landing" by Nationalist troops.

On the basis of the agreement, Vice Admiral Daniel E. Barbey arranged for American ships to land Nationalist units before the deadline expired with the understanding that the movement would be unopposed.

The sudden disappearance of the Soviet garrison was disclosed by a Nationalist liaison mission which put out in a destroyer escort yesterday for a scheduled 10 a. m. conference with the Russian garrison commander, a Lieutenant-Colonel Leonov.

The Russian not only failed to appear, but the mission found the pier near the anchorage guarded by Chinese Communists with fixed bayonets. Hundreds of laborers were digging trenches and erecting barricades.

Vice-Mayor Chang Fu-Chung appeared at the pier with two guards and advised the mission that the Russians had left and the Communists now were in control. He said Communist troops would resist any Nationalist landing.

The mission returned to Barbey to report. Barbey probably will decide his next move after a conference with Lt. Gen. Tu Li-Ming, Nationalist commander for Manchuria.

Barbey and the Chinese command now face a quandary.

Barbey already has refused to land Chinese troops from his ships at Communist-held Chefoo and Hulatao because of the possibility that American lives would be endangered.

The Russians have forbidden a Chinese landing at Dairen, and it was not known whether any other suitable ports remain.

Chinese Communists first entered Manchuria to help the Red army liberate the territory from Japan. Communist reinforcements apparently have poured in over Soviet-held railways since Japan's surrender.

Allies Finally Make Public Terms Of 1943 Armistice With Italy

BY R. H. SHACKFORD
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—The Allies today made public the long-suppressed Italian armistice terms under which Marshal Pietro Badoglio surrendered unconditionally in the Fall of 1943 and turned over Italy lock, stock and barrel to the Allies.

Documents accompanying the armistice text revealed that the terms never were completely invoked and, for all major practical purposes, were abrogated last February.

Italy's early assumption of the role of co-belligerent on the Allied side after quitting the Axis made many of the armistice terms obsolete before they could be put into effect.

Under the original terms, Italy surrendered her political, military, economic and financial sovereignty to the Allies. The Allies never found it necessary to take advantage of their broad authority and under an "aide memoire" of last Feb. 24, virtually restored sovereignty to the Italian government in those fields even before negotiation of a peace treaty.

The armistice documents made no reference to territorial settlement or preparations, leaving both (Continued on Page Two)

MANILA, Nov. 6—Witnesses ranging from an 11-year-old girl to an army major told today how the Japanese burned alive, decapitated, bayoneted and otherwise tortured to death 4,000 civilians in the Intramuros—Manila's ancient walled city—last February.

Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, on trial for his life for responsibility for these and other mass murders totalling in the tens of thousands, doodled with a pencil and avoided the eyes of witnesses as the recital of his forces' unparalleled savagery went through its eighth day.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6—Police today were investigating three murders which occurred on Chicago's south side within five hours.

In that short span of time last night an elderly candy shop owner was tortured and slain, a truck driver was shot down on the street in gangland style and a man was stabbed to death in an apparent robbery attempt.

Firemen, responding to an alarm, found the body of Alex Bromberg, 75, on a bed in the living quarters at the rear of his modest "school" store. He had been burned, slashed and shot.

Detectives said it appeared Bromberg had been tortured in an effort to make him reveal the hiding place of savings.

Less than two hours later, James Townsend, 38, was shot down by a masked man who drove alongside the victim as he walked on the sidewalk.

Townsend, a driver for a Chicago newspaper (The Daily Times), was a brother-in-law of Charles Vinc, shot to death in 1942 at his south side nightclub. Townsend's widow, Marie, said she was certain her husband had not been engaged in illegal activities.

The third murder reported was that of Anton Skinkis, 59, stabbed to death in a struggle with two men, one wearing a soldier's uniform. Police said witnesses' stories indicated Skinkis had been attacked by bandits.

NAZI GOLD AND SILVER FOUND HIDDEN BY JAPS

TOKYO, Nov. 6—More than $500,000 worth of silver and other Nazi wealth were discovered today by American counter-intelligence agents investigating a German spy ring in Japan.

The cache included 299 silver ingots valued at $119,616. It was understood the Germans planned to send them to Berlin via Siberia but the German invasion of Russia in 1940 prevented.

During an investigation at Karuzawa, one of several suspects inadvertently revealed that the treasure was hidden in Gumma Prefecture.

A detail of the American agents found the treasure in 15 large warehouses in Kiryu, 30 miles south of Karuzawa. One warehouse held $250,000 worth of German dyestuffs.

They also found jewelry, silverware, furniture, clothing and food stores belonging to the Nazi leaders.

Mayor Relays Warning To Members Of United Auto Workers

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 6—A warning that "military force" would be used to remove a barricade of automobiles, busses and trucks thrown around strike-bound Ford of Canada plants was issued today to 20,000 CIO Ford strikers and sympathizers by the Windsor city council.

The council, after an extraordinary closed session last night, instructed Mayor Arthur J. Reaume to convey the warning to officials of local 200 of the United Auto Workers (CIO) as government officials sought to settle the increasingly critical two-months old strike.

Reaume, who has consistently backed the Ford strikers during the stalemate walkout, said he had been given a mandate by the council. He said that the provincial troops whose arrival in Windsor led to a sudden spread of the walkout throughout Windsor factories would be used if the UAW local failed to remove its two-mile long barricade of commandeered vehicles.

Reaume did not indicate whether any deadline had been set by the council for removal of the barricades.

As the tension mounted anew, the city awaited a conference promised by Humphrey Mitchell, Canadian labor minister, who flew here hurriedly from Ottawa last night. Mitchell said he and other government officials would meet with union leaders and Ford representatives today.

Thirty industrial plants in addition to the Ford company were shut down by the 10,000 sympathizing strikers. Union officials warned that if "drastic action" were taken by police, the strike would become general throughout the city.

At Ottawa, Clarence Gillis, labor leader of the cooperative commonwealth party, told parliament that the strike would spread across Canada "within 48 hours" if police attempted to smash the picket lines. Gillis said lives had been (Continued on Page Two)

Japanese Government Orders Dissolution Of Big Holding Companies

TOKYO, Nov. 6—The Japanese government decreed today the dissolution of Japan's four biggest Zaibatsu—the multi-billionaire Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Yasuda and Suitomo family holding companies—in compliance with a directive from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Together, the four companies controlled 40 percent of Japan's economy. Most companies voluntarily asked guidance in breaking up their vast combines, some of which had investment and patent links with American concerns.

MacArthur hailed the move as clearing the way "for the first time in Japanese history for the Japanese people to achieve economic freedom."

He ordered the government to form plans for dissolution of all other monopolistic combines throughout Japan to permit wider distribution of income and ownership and wide Japanese economic development along peaceful, democratic lines.

It was understood that the government will create a holding company liquidation organization to issue government-guaranteed bonds as a means of preventing holding company securities from becoming totally worthless.

The Mitsui company, developed in the 17th century from a sake business, includes investments in 173 companies. The total operating capital of the parent company and its 22 major subsidiaries exceeds $446,000,000.

The principal Mitsui companies dealt in mining, chemicals, finance, ceramics, textiles, tools, machinery, paper, communications, transport, electricity and food.

Capital Transportation System Is Paralyzed By 'Continuous Meeting'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—The nation's capital, scene of a labor-management dispute to ease labor strife, awoke today to find its citywide bus and trolley system virtually paralyzed by a walkout of drivers, conductors, motormen and maintenance workers.

The walkout was called shortly before 3 a. m. by local 689 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL). It came as the climax to a month-long dispute with the Capital Transit Company over demands for a 30-cent hourly pay boost.

The company provides all bus and trolley service within the city itself and also serves some Maryland suburbs. About 4,000 of the company's 4,600 employees were involved.

Company officials said a few cars and busses in its "owl" or late night service ran for a while after 3 a. m. but that "nothing has gone out since 5 o'clock."

CITY CONTESTS DRAW INTEREST

Nation Watches Labor's Bid In Detroit Election, New York Balloting

By United Press
Mayorality elections were held today in six major cities and voters selected representatives in two off-year congressional contests.

The mayorality contest at Detroit overshadowed all others in national interest. At Detroit organized labor made its most important bid for control of a city administration.

The fight in Detroit between Richard T. Frankenstein, vice president of the United Automobile Workers union (CIO), and Mayor Edward J. Jeffries, Jr., seeking re-election, stole the spotlight from New York's mayorality race.

The contest in the nation's largest city was expected to go to William O'Dwyer, Democrat-American Labor party candidate. A victory for O'Dwyer would return the Democrats to power for the first time in 12 years.

O'Dwyer supporters predicted he would be elected by the biggest plurality given a mayorality candidate in years. Approximately 2,000,000 New York voters were expected to go to the polls. O'Dwyer's opponents were General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein, Republican-Fusion-Liberal party candidate, and Newbold Morris, no deal party candidate backed by Mayor F. H. La Guardia who did not choose to run for re-election.

Important mayorality elections were being held also in Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Buffalo. Hundreds of municipal contests were being held in New England, but the six-way fight for mayor of Boston held the interest. Rep. James M. Curley opposed five other Democrats.

In Pittsburgh, Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence opposed Robert N. Waddell, Republican.

Labor-Management Settle Down To Work After Opening Speeches

NOTHING ACCOMPLISHED

UMW Chief, Murray Clash On Representation On Executive Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—United Mine Workers Chief John L. Lewis won an unanimous victory today after a hot debate on one of the issues of the national labor-management conference.

The question was whether the conference should create an executive committee of eight members with two places each assigned to the conference "Big 4"—the National association of Manufacturers, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Lewis argued the matter should be sent back to the rules committee to decide whether such independent organizations as the United Mine Workers and railroad brotherhoods also should be represented. The conference finally agreed.

Lewis objected to the proposed on grounds it did not specifically state what organizations were to be represented. He was upheld by the conference after he and CIO President Phil Murray had clashed over Murray's reference to a "blitz" to place Lewis on the executive committee.

The conference, settling down to work after yesterday's opening speeches, adopted a program agenda as proposed by the preparatory committee, except on the executive committees and a minor issue.

After approving a resolution commending the efforts of Marine Major Paul H. Douglas as co-chairman of the preparatory commission, the conference adjourned until 2:30 p. m.

The conference buckled down to work today amid widespread speculation whether Lewis planned to "take a walk."

The possibility arose during the opening session yesterday when an industry spokesman rejected a pre-conference UMW proposal that all delegates—management or labor—be able to bind their interests to any agreements adopted by the conference.

The second day of the parley, called by President Truman to seek means of minimizing disputes, got underway with these developments:

1. In the first compromise of the session, the arrangements committee announced that farm- (Continued on Page Two)

RED DELEGATE STILL ABSENT FROM MEETING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—The Far Eastern advisory commission met today without a delegate from Soviet Russia.

There was no immediate indication as to whether Russia would be represented later.

The meeting scheduled for last week was postponed when the Russians failed to show up. The other 10 participating nations are: United States, Great Britain, France, China, Australia, New Zealand, Philippines, Netherlands, Canada and India.

Moscow wants a more direct share in control of Japan than advisory commission membership would provide. The commission may meet as scheduled today or again postpone formal organization pending word from the Russians.

The misunderstanding over control of Japan is one of many contributing today to deterioration of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union and among the big three. There are large and small symptoms of suspicion on both sides. The only important cheerful note is President Truman's confidence. He is confident that Generalissimo Josef V. Stalin will intervene to remove some of the obstacles on which the recent London foreign ministers' council was wrecked.

Voting Reported Light At City Polling Places

Despite near-perfect weather with bright sunshine and clear skies, reports from polling places in Circleville Tuesday morning indicated a very light vote.

The light vote was attributed to lack of interest in the election with only the proposed two-mill agricultural tax attracting county-wide attention.

A noon check with Circleville polling places indicated a very light city vote. Only 17 had voted at the Circleville Oil company; 8 at the Helvering filling station; 24 at the fire station; 23 in the court house basement and 9 in the city garage. Circleville township vote was reported very light with only 12 ballots cast at Elmon Richards store.

Circleville city and township voters will decide who will be elected justice of the peace, Clarence Strawser and Harold O. Eveland, who is now serving, are candidates. The only other contest in Circleville is for city treasurer with Gladys Fausnaugh Wiggins, Republican, opposing Everett P. Stockden. The rest of the city candidates, all Democrats, will be elected without opposition.

The question was whether the conference should create an executive committee of eight members with two places each assigned to the conference "Big 4"—the National association of Manufacturers, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Lewis argued the matter should be sent back to the rules committee to decide whether such independent organizations as the United Mine Workers and railroad brotherhoods also should be represented. The conference finally agreed.

Lewis objected to the proposed grounds it did not specifically state what organizations were to be represented. He was upheld by the conference after he and CIO President Phil Murray had clashed over Murray's reference to a "blitz" to place Lewis on the executive committee.

The conference, settling down to work after yesterday's opening speeches, adopted a program agenda as proposed by the preparatory committee, except on the executive committees and a minor issue.

After approving a resolution commending the efforts of Marine Major Paul H. Douglas as co-chairman of the preparatory commission, the conference adjourned until 2:30 p. m.

The conference buckled down to work today amid widespread speculation whether Lewis planned to "take a walk."

The possibility arose during the opening session yesterday when an industry spokesman rejected a pre-conference UMW proposal that all delegates—management or labor—be able to bind their interests to any agreements adopted by the conference.

The second day of the parley, called by President Truman to seek means of minimizing disputes, got underway with these developments:

1. In the first compromise of the session, the arrangements committee announced that farm- (Continued on Page Two)

RED DELEGATE STILL ABSENT FROM MEETING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—The Far Eastern advisory commission met today without a delegate from Soviet Russia.

There was no immediate indication as to whether Russia would be represented later.

The meeting scheduled for last week was postponed when the Russians failed to show up. The other 10 participating nations are: United States, Great Britain, France, China, Australia, New Zealand, Philippines, Netherlands, Canada and India.

Moscow wants a more direct share in control of Japan than advisory commission membership would provide. The commission may meet as scheduled today or again postpone formal organization pending word from the Russians.

The misunderstanding over control of Japan is one of many contributing today to deterioration of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union and among the big three. There are large and small symptoms of suspicion on both sides. The only important cheerful note is President Truman's confidence. He is confident that Generalissimo Josef V. Stalin will intervene to remove some of the obstacles on which the recent London foreign ministers' council was wrecked.

ers, consumers, independent unions and other groups not directly represented by the 36-employee-employer delegates could submit their idea to a special committee. The action was partly the result of a picket line thrown around the conference by independent unions yesterday to protest lack of "adequate" representation for unaffiliated workers.

2. Labor spokesmen described as "nonsense" the suggestion by Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach that unions appoint their own "czar"—like baseball and the movie industry—to settle jurisdictional disputes.

3. The CIO appeared to be waging a losing fight in demanding that the wage-price issue, underlying factor in most current strikes, be taken up by the conference. AFL President William Green sided with industry delegates in the view that such a controversial issue should be avoided. The mine workers proposal that delegates have full authority to commit their interests was rejected by President Ira Mosher of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"Not one of the delegates here can make contracts that are binding on the group or industry that he represents," Mosher said. "In other words, this is not a national collective bargaining conference."

Today's schedule called for reports by the rules committee, appointment of other committees and discussion by delegates of current industrial and economic problems.

The government withdrew from the conference today after playing the leading role in getting it started. But it wasn't soon enough to prevent both industry and labor delegates from getting their dander up at some statements or proposals made yesterday by high administration officials.

For the most part, the delegates applauded President Truman's opening speech. He urged both sides to adopt full collective bargaining to settle their disputes, but at the same time warned that if they couldn't do it, some answer "must and will be found"—presumably by the government.

It was Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace who aroused the delegates. Industry representatives disliked Wallace's statement that industry could afford to raise basic wage rates 15 per cent without raising prices. And labor delegates virtually jeered at Schwellenbach's suggestion of a labor "czar."

Wallace, with CIO President Philip Murray, believes that if the conference is to succeed in working out long-term methods for minimizing industrial strife, it must consider now, head-on, the great debate over wages and prices which is the cause of most current unrest.

Slogans for the anniversary emphasized the new Soviet five-year plan for reconstruction and industrial expansion, but it was possible that Stalin would touch upon Russia's foreign as well as domestic policies.

controlled 101 companies including aircraft aluminum, typewriter, cement, banking, utilities and steel concerns. The Yasuda bank alone had 171 branches in September with deposits of $866,000,000.

The Sumitomo holding company, owned entirely by the Sumitomo family with headquarters in Osaka, controlled 19 companies and 15 affiliated concerns dealing in banking, mining, metals, chemicals, electrical utilities, steamships plastics and glass.

The Aluminum Company of Canada owns 30 per cent of the stock in the Sumitomo Aluminum company. The Sumitomo metal industries before the war granted use of a steel patent to the international Western Telegraph company, a subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The Japanese government said four Americans were members of the Sumitomo board before the war. The four were identified merely as Conduct, Richardson, Jillard and Fullam. No first names were given.

The Sumitomo bank had overseas branches in New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and London and operated local banks in Honolulu, Seattle and Sacramento, Calif.

Sumitomo's Japan Sheet Glass company was established in 1918 as a joint enterprise of Sumitomo and the Libby-Owens Sheet Glass company of Toledo, Ohio.

Japanese sources said the Mitsubishi concern apparently attempted to cash in on war profits by currying favor with politicians.

It was revealed that Mitsubishi interests presented Pearl Harbor Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo with the beautiful home in which he attempted to commit suicide at the time of his arrest.

Tojo's family also was reported to have received gifts in cash, stocks and property worth $660,000 from Kiyoshi Coko, former president of the Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, LTD.

downtown government and private offices who don't own cars, the union action left the choice of hitching an auto ride, finding a taxicab—or walking.

The walkout, however, did not tie up all service into the city from Virginia and some Maryland suburbs. Two other major bus lines and railroad service were available to most suburban residents. Those facilities, however, do not provide transportation for intra-city passengers.

Many suburbanites who previously could count on interstate busses to bring them to work in a pinch here were handicapped by the Greyhound bus strike.

An unprecedented number of taxicabs and private cars jammed downtown streets.

Delegates to the labor-management conference, government officials and others who regularly depend on cabs for short hops around the city were confronted with long periods of waiting to find an accommodating cabbie.

A meeting of about 1,900 union members voted the action after a lengthy meeting at the Gayety theatre, local burlesque house.

Union officials emphasized that it was not a strike but an order for members to report to a "continuous meeting." Its effect, however, was the same as a strike; it kept the workers from manning the busses and trolleys of the Capital Transit system.

William F. Simms, president of local 689, said the demand for the 30-cent hourly raise was being made under a contract provision calling for revision of wage scales when government ceilings were lifted.

The company announced earlier it was willing to make the seven-cent-an-hour wartime bonus now in effect part of its regular base pay. A company spokesman said operators of one-man cars and busses now were getting $1.02 an hour, 85 cents of it in hourly base pay plus the seven-cent bonus.

The company issued a statement quoting a provision of its contract with the union providing that "... during the period covered by this contract the service upon and operation of the lines of this company shall not be interrupted or interfered with by either party."

The company also said the contract authorized reopening of the wage question by either party following any change in the national wage policy, but that 30 days written notice was required. It said the union had filed its written notice October 9—less than the required 30 days.

priests' rooms and slew hundreds of the men.

Eleven-year-old Rosalinda Andoy, pretty in her freshly-pressed pink dress, took the witness stand and told between sobs how she was orphaned in the Intramuros massacre.

"My father was killed by the Japs," she said, barely able to hold back the tears. "My mother is no more. She was bayoneted to death beside me. I was bayoneted 38 times."

At the request of the prosecutor, she showed a horribly-scarred arm.

"The Japs jabbed me 10 times there," she said.

The crowded courtroom was silent. Yamashita looked the other way.

Then Rosalinda pulled up her pink dress. Long bayonet scars criss-crossed her abdomen and chest. Spectators dabbed at their eyes.

Nursing Sister Nelly de Jesus Virate said she saw the Japanese take two Filipino attendants from a hospital, strip them naked and tie them to a post in a burning building. They were burned to death.

Luis Gallant said the Japanese crowded civilian men into Fort Santiago 60 to 80 in a cell, poured gasoline everywhere and set the building afire.

"The heat was terrible," he said. "Only two escaped from my cell by the window. Machine-guns had been set up outside the buildings to shoot any who got out."

"I fled through a garage, howsoever. A body fell on me and fractured my back as I was crawling through the garage, but I dived into the Pasig river and swam to safety."

Another witness said 300 men in Fort Santiago were lined up and divided indiscriminately into two groups. One group returned to their cells, but the other prisoners were beheaded.

Maj. Frank J. Middleburg of Cincinnati, O., testified he found the bodies of 300 civilians who had been starved to death in a cell of the Fort Santiago dungeon.

Allies Finally Make Public Terms Of 1943 Armistice With Italy

for the final peace treaty. But they called for Italy to pay all occupation costs—an impractical step which had to be modified and followed by extension of U. S. credits to the Italian government instead.

The armistice terms—subject of much debate and speculation during their more than two years of secrecy—were released simultaneously today by the American, British and Italian governments. The other interested nations, including Soviet Russia, were advised of the move in advance.

Meanwhile, authoritative sources revealed that Italy has made a third recent request for revision of the document under which Italy technically, but not actually, is functioning. The United States has not answered the Italian request and is still hoping to revive his power machinery for negotiating an early Italian peace treaty.

On two previous occasions, Italian requests for revision have been made—by Badoglio directly to the late President Roosevelt and by the Bonomi government.

It was also revealed that as early as August of 1944, the Bonomi government in Italy requested publication of the terms. One of the explanations often given for withholding publication up to now was that the Italian government objected.

State department officials insisted that they have been periodically seeking publication of the terms but that American military people objected. Before the war in Europe ended, the military position was that publication might give the Nazis "ammunition" to weaken the resistance of Italian partisans behind Nazi lines.

The Italian armistice terms have long been described as "harsh and obsolete." Some clauses were obsolete before signed. The terms themselves, however, revealed little to justify the term "harsh." A top official admitted that "complete" or "sweeping" probably was a better adjective. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes once described them as "harsh," but admitted later that he had never read them.

The Italian terms parallel in their broad aspects those imposed upon the Axis satellites in eastern Europe. In one aspect, however, they were less stringent because they made no mention of reparations which already are being exacted by Russia from such countries as Romania and Finland.

The eight documents totaled 10,000 words.

NAZIS PLANNED HARSH RULE OF BRITISH ISLES

LONDON, Nov. 6—The Nazi high command in 1940 ordered a "military government for England" be created which would provide treatment similar to that suffered by continental countries overrun by the Nazis, it was disclosed last night.

Authorities released a "most secret" translation of instructions which fell into British hands last July. The document gave details of the German plan for ruling England if their channel invasion succeeded.

Invading forces were to be divided into local armies with each commandant responsible for the military government of his area. A "defense economic staff for England" was to be employed for exploiting the country and directly responsible to Berlin. Orders called for seizure of all good, gasoline, vehicles and horses.

Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch, who went to the French coast in September, 1940 to prepare for the invasion of England, was to have been military governor.

The orders were dated Sept. 9, 1940 and contained a seven-point proclamation to the British people signed by Brauchitsch.

"I warn all civilians if they undertake active civilian military operations against the Germans they will be condemned to death inexorably," the proclamation read. "The main task of the military government is to make full use of the country's resources for war."

USES CORER ON WOOL

LARAMIE, Wyo.—Extensive research is being carried out this year in the coring of wool by Alexander Johnston, former chief of the Wool Division of the Livestock and Meats Branch, War Goods Administration. Johnston is assistant in the wool department of the University of Wyoming. By using a coring device, he is endeavoring to establish a practicable method of sampling wool for shrinking determination.

Many of the vehicles had been commandeered yesterday by the strikers on the threat of destroying them if they were not surrendered.

The barricade at the Ford plants resulted in a hopeless tangle. Royal Canadian Mounted police and provincial police were stationed near the scene, but were not called in. Mayor Arthur J. Reaume had appealed to Ottawa against their use. Reaume said that he feared violence would result if the police were used to escort maintenance workers through the picket lines. The union indicated that the strike would erupt explosively.

"This is a showdown for government responsibility," said Richard Rowe, a spokesman for local 200 of the UAW-CIO. "Either settlement is going to be sought peacefully or our members will stand firm against operation of the plant."

The company announced earlier it was willing to make the seven-cent-an-hour wartime bonus now in effect part of its regular base pay. A company spokesman said operators of one-man cars and busses now were getting $1.02 an hour, 95 cents of it in hourly base pay plus the seven cent bonus.

The company issued a statement quoting a provision of its contract with the union providing that "... during the period covered by this contract the service upon and operation of the lines of this company shall not be interrupted or interfered with by either party."

The company also said the contract authorized reopening of the wage question by either party following any change in the national wage policy, but that 30 days written notice was required. It said the union had filed its written notice October 9—less than the required 30 days.

priests' rooms and slew hundreds of the men.

Eleven-year-old Rosalinda Andoy, pretty in her freshly-pressed pink dress, took the witness stand and told between sobs how she was orphaned in the Intramuros massacre.

"My father was killed by the Japs," she said, barely able to hold back the tears. "My mother is no more. She was bayoneted to death beside me. I was bayoneted 38 times."

At the request of the prosecutor, she showed a horribly-scared arm.

"The Japs jabbed me 10 times there," she said.

The crowded courtroom was silent. Yamashita looked the other way.

Then Rosalinda pulled up her pink dress. Long bayonet scars criss-crossed her abdomen and chest. Spectators dabbed at their eyes.

Nursing Sister Nelly de Jesus Virate said she saw the Japanese take two Filipino attendants from a hospital, strip them naked and tie them to a post in a burning building. They were burned to death.

Luis Gallant said the Japanese crowded civilian men into Fort Santiago 60 to 80 in a cell, poured gasoline everywhere and set the building afire.

"The heat was terrible," he said. "Only two escaped from my cell by the window. Machine-guns had been set up outside the buildings to shoot any who got out."

"I fled through a garage, however. A body fell on me and fractured my back as I was crawling through the garage, but I dived into the Pasig river and swam to safety."

Another witness said 300 men in Fort Santiago were lined up and divided indiscriminately into two groups. One group returned to their cells, but the other prisoners were beheaded.

Maj. Frank J. Middleburg of Cincinnati, O., testified he found the bodies of 300 civilians who had been starved to death in a cell of the Fort Santiago dungeon.

CHURCH COMES FIRST

TWIN FALLS, Ida.—Too much time and money expended for religion is not good, District Judge James W. Porter ruled recently as he granted a divorce to Orlo Williams from Rose Olive Williams. The judge's memorandum averred that the woman had "persisted in placing her church interests over and above the interests of her home and husband," but emphasized that the court was not criticizing the defendant's religious beliefs.

Allies Finally Make Public Terms Of 1943 Armistice With Italy

for the final peace treaty. But they called for Italy to pay all occupation costs—an impractical step which had to be modified and followed by extension of U. S. credits to the Italian government instead.

The armistice terms—subject of much debate and speculation during their more than two years of secrecy—were released simultaneously today by the American, British and Italian governments.

The other interested nations, including Soviet Russia, were advised of the move in advance.

Meanwhile, authoritative sources revealed that Italy has made a third recent request for revision of the document under which Italy technically, but not actually, is functioning. The United States has not answered the Italian request and is still hoping to revive big power machinery for negotiating an early Italian peace treaty.

On two previous occasions, Italian requests for revision have been made—by Badoglio directly to the late President Roosevelt and by the Bonomi government.

It was also revealed that as early as August of 1944, the Bonomi government in Italy requested publication of the terms. One of the explanations often given for withholding publication up to now was that the Italian government objected.

State department officials insisted that they have been periodically seeking publication of the terms but that American military people objected. Before the war in Europe ended, the military position was that publication might give the Nazis "ammunition" to weaken the resistance of Italian partisans behind Nazi lines.

The Italian armistice terms have long been described as "harsh and obsolete." Some clauses were obsolete before signed. The terms themselves, however, revealed little to justify the term "harsh." A top official admitted that "complete" or "sweeping" probably was a better adjective. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes once described them as "harsh," but admitted later that he had never read them.

The Italian terms parallel in their broad aspects those imposed upon the Axis satellites in eastern Europe. In one aspect, however, they were less stringent because they made no mention of reparations which already are being exacted by Russia from such countries as Romania and Finland.

The eight documents totaled 10,000 words.

NAZIS PLANNED HARSH RULE OF BRITISH ISLES

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Nazi high command in 1940 ordered a "military government for England" be created which would provide treatment similar to that suffered by continental countries overrun by the Nazis, it was disclosed last night.

Authorities released a "most secret" translation of instructions which fell into British hands last July. The document gave details of the

HOUSING PLAN IS OUTLINED AT KIWANIS CLUB

A plan to provide 25 houses for Circleville working men was outlined by Tom Gilliland at the Kiwanis meeting Monday evening at Hanley's.

Mr. Gilliland explained the Chamber of Commerce committee was planning a project to provide a few much-needed homes in the community. The plot of land will be purchased and sold to individuals. Money made in the transaction will be used to prepare the section for lots, streets, utilities, etc. Then the section will be turned over to the city which will see that improvements are made.

Houses will be built at a price between $4,000 and $5,000. Plans are incomplete but Mr. Gilliland stated work on the project may be started by next June.

He stated the housing situation was bad everywhere because building almost stopped after the depression. Before the depression 20 to 35 houses were built every year in Circleville but in the last 10 years only about 50 houses have been built, Mr. Gilliland said.

Building materials, brick, concrete blocks and lumber are scarcer now than during the war, Mr. Gilliland said, but expects a normal flow of supplies by Spring.

A guest at the meeting was Lt. Collins, with Homer Reber.

NO STONE UNTURNED

Remember when the fish were biting in the creek down beside the old mill? You just had to have bait and you left "no stone unturned" to find it.

It's an old American custom to measure up . . . to meet situations as they arise. So, during World War II, the American railroads and their employees left "no stone unturned" to move our fighting forces and the materials of war in unprecedented volume.

Now that the war is over, we are facing a period of planning for lasting peace and greater prosperity. Again, the Norfolk and Western and the other railroads of the country are leaving "no stone unturned."

Many technological experiments are underway. We are working on the development of new type locomotives, employing revolutionary principles of power. Freight and passenger equipment will be improved; schedules will be speeded up. To expedite the movement of traffic and increase safety, the N. & W. is expanding its Centralized Traffic Control System. To handle the increased foreign freight, and intercoastal traffic with the greatest possible efficiency and speed, the N. & W. will expand its Tidewater facilities by the construction of a new $5,750,000 merchandise pier at Lambert Point, Norfolk, Va. — one of the largest and most modern piers ever built.

These additions and betterments are on the way, but even so, the Norfolk and Western is ready today to move the traffic.

Seventy-five percent of the railroad's freight and passenger traffic is moved by modern locomotives less than 10 years old, or locomotives that have been completely modernized within that period.

Track is maintained at a high state of excellence — solid, strong, smooth and clean.

Terminals and yard facilities are modern and extensive.

Manpower is efficient and more experienced from lessons learned during the war.

In short, there will be no let up on the N. & W. . . . service will continue to improve . . . and to this end, we will leave "no stone unturned."

HIKE, CAMPING TRIP PLANNED BY TROOP 121

Plans for a patrol hike next Sunday and an overnight trip to Camp Lazarus were discussed at the meeting of Boy Scout troop 121 Monday night. Next Sunday Scouts will meet at 1:30 p. m. at the Scoutmaster's home. Tuesday a patrol leaders meeting will be held at the scoutmaster's home.

Ed Francis led the pledge of allegiance to open the meeting. Where to wear emblems and merit badges was discussed. Richard Justice gave the semaphore code. The scoutmaster explained the new requirement for knife and hatchet in tenderfoot work.

The meeting was closed with the Scout oath and laws led by Robert Workmen.

WARM WEATHER MAKES ANOTHER STAND HERE

Very clear skies and warm temperatures prevailed Tuesday, election day. Continued rise in temperatures is predicted after a welcome respite from Sunday's extreme cold was enjoyed Monday. High Monday was 64 and low Tuesday morning, 42.

A shift back to wintry skies and colder temperatures is forecast for the last of the week, however, with showers predicted for Sunday and Monday. Temperatures so far this Fall have been average except for several days that had above-normal temperatures. Weather Observer Roy Hawkes stated.

There are about 250,000 known species of plants, and some of these species include several varieties.

'Our Top Commentators'
Is Topic Of Mrs. Hays

Monday Club Hears
About Radio Men
At Meeting

In securing material for a paper on "Our Top Commentators" Mrs. A. Hulse Hays told the members of the Monday club at the regular meeting of that organization that she had found that the number of commentators considered 'tops' by one survey or another numbered about 60.

Quoting Dixon Wector writing on "Hearing is Believing" in the Atlantic Monthly, Mrs. Hays said his description of a radio news history is "A creation of recent history with its wars and rumors of wars. The public craves both a digest of today's news and a preview of tomorrow's. An announcer gets a job of reading 15 minutes of Associated Press bulletins and does so in a pleasant, crisp and authoritative voice. A local restaurateur happens to tune in and thinks it might be a good idea to advertise his dollar dinner through a late afternoon broadcast. There the newscaster finds a sponsor and a radio spot. He is discovered by a talent scout, who promises to build him up into regional, perhaps national fame. Soon he finds himself commenting on everything—war, grand strategy, peace, government. Travelling over the country, lecturing to women's clubs, men's service clubs, writing for magazines and entering the portals of success, which in the higher circles of radio, resembles the world of the theatre with its fan mail, dazzling salaries and personal acclaim, rather than the world of the press room."

According to a popularity poll taken this year among a thousand newspaper and magazine professionals, Lowell Thomas stood first, Raymond Gram Swing, second, and Drew Pearson, third. According to the year's Hooper rating (and the Hooper poll is taken from a cross section of American public opinion in the manner of the more famous Gallup poll), Lowell Thomas is first, Walter Winchell is second and Gabriell Heaster third.

In gate receipts Mrs. Hays says she got her information from current magazines and not from the Bureau of Internal Revenue, so it is in no way official. Walter Winchell comes first (for the Jergens Co. is reported to pay him $250,000 a year for his Sunday fifteen minute broadcast). Gabriell Heaster is second (Kreml pays him $200,000 a year for his one 15 minute broadcast), and Fulton Lewis, Jr., runs a poor third with only $165,000 a year for his five times a week 15 minutes broadcast. At that though he gets more than twice as much as the president of the United States.

Mrs. Hays continued with a sketch of the lives of various commentators, telling how Hans Von Kuitenberg was born in Milwaukee, the son of Baron Rudolph Von Kuitenberg a Hessian Guard officer, who married an American school teacher and settled in Milwaukee. After Hans first year in the local high school he ran away from home and traveled through Europe working his way at various trades. At the age of 27 he returned to the United States and worked as a reporter for the Brooklyn Eagle. He then decided to get more education and entered Harvard and left there 3 years later with his B. A. degree. He has interviewed Hitler, Mussolini, Gandhi and the Pope and is one of the few American reporters who has entered the headquarters of Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek.

Lowell Jackson Thomas has been a radio news broadcaster for the National Broadcasting company since 1930 and commentator for Twentieth Century Fox movie tone since 1935. He is a broadcaster of straight news, rather than a news analyst. He was born in Ohio in 1892 but spent all of his boyhood in Cripple Creek, Colorado where his father was a physician for a mining company. In World War I, he was sent out to take pictures of the Belgian, French, British and Arabian armies and his first book "With Lawrence in Arabia" was published in 1924 and a result of this brought him quick fame. Since then his time has been devoted to globe trotting and reporting on his travels. To date he has written 42 books and he employs a small staff of ghost writers to help him with his material.

She also gave interesting data on many other commentators. The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. Robert Adkins and its was voted to give $10 to the War chest fund.

Mrs. Nell Weldon gave a report of the recent meeting of the Ohioana Library meeting in Columbus.

Mrs. Edgar Blake of Coral Gables, Fla., has arrived in Circleville for a visit with her two sisters, Mrs. H. W. Plum and Mrs. Charles Owens, and other relatives.

The business meeting was closed by the repetition of the Lord's Prayer.

Pickaway Native
Tells Experiences
As Jap Prisoner

Just 5 months ago Mrs. Hugh Bousman, a Pickaway county native and wife of a Presbyterian missionary to the Philippines was a prisoner in a Japanese concentration camp.

Her experiences as related to the members and guests of the Presbyterian Women's association at the meeting held in the church parlors, Friday afternoon were of the time she spent with her husband and children between the attack on Pearl Harbor and the time of her liberation.

She said they were under daily bombing attacks from December 7 until Christmas day of 1941. After Better learn the Truth, Mother!

Recent medical reports reveal that an amazing number of children (and grown-ups too) may be victims of Pin-Worms—often without suspecting what is wrong! And these pests, living and growing inside the human body, can cause real distress.

So watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms—especially the annoying rectal itch. If you suspect this, get JAYNE'S P-W right away and follow the directions.

P-W is the name of the Pin-Worm tablets developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, after years of patient research. The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back. Ask your druggist: P-W for Pin-Worms!

the Japanese took possession of the city, the missionaries were interned in Santo Tomas university but were sent to their respective homes for the daily chores and each day the restrictions were tighter and the privations ever increasing. This continued for nearly 2 years until they were glad to escape the executioner's raids and to go with a large group of ecclesiastics to the Los Banos concentration camp.

The population of this camp, Mrs. Bousman said was increased to 2,164 persons by the addition of a group of civilian internees. Food rations, when they were first interned, she said were barely enough to keep them alive and after the first 3 months it was cut in half. The rice they had to eat was full of worms and they learned to eat every form of edible vegetation. Even the banana skins and stalks were eaten when such rare treats were had.

Every effort was made to keep up the morale, especially of the small children who could not understand their pitiful privations.

At one time they were given a small pig for meat. A chant was composed by some members of the group "Glorious, Glorious,—one little skinny pig for 2,164 of us; thank goodness there are no more of us."

Clothing was worn and patched until unrecognizable. Mrs. Bousman said. Thread for the mending and patching was obtained by raveling socks and stockings.

The first American planes went overhead, September 25, 1944. They were enroute to bomb Manila. From that time on knowledge of the fighting came from the planes flying across their compound.

American intelligence officers had learned that at the 7:30 roll call, February 22, 1945, the Japanese had planned to kill all the prisoners. Accordingly before that time American planes dropped 150 paratroopers near the camp who with native guerrilla troops freed the inmates of the camp.

In the fighting for the freedom of the prisoners two of the paratroopers were killed but all the prisoners escaped unharmed. They were then taken across Manila Lake in 55 amphibious tanks, under fire from Jap shore patrols and quartered in an abandoned Jap prison. The housing was poor, she said but they had good food and 4 years supply of mail from home and best of all freedom.

Mrs. Bousman brought her 3 children home on an army transport but her husband remained in Manila to help his Filipino parishioners reconstruct their homes and their church. They are now ministering to the homesick American troops who are there assisting in the reconstruction of the city.

At the conclusion of the talk, tea was served by Group G, with Mrs. Robert Musser as chairman.

the Japanese took possession of the city, the missionaries were interned in Santo Tomas university but were sent to their respective homes for the daily chores and each day the restrictions were tighter and the privations ever increasing. This continued for nearly 2 years until they were glad to escape the executioner's raids and to go with a large group of ecclesiastics to the Los Banos concentration camp.

The population of this camp, Mrs. Bousman said was increased to 2,164 persons by the addition of a group of civilian internees. Food rations, when they were first interned, she said were barely enough to keep them alive and after the first 3 months it was cut in half. The rice they had to eat was full of worms and they learned to eat every form of edible vegetation. Even the banana skins and stalks were eaten when such rare treats were had.

Every effort was made to keep up the morale, especially of the small children who could not understand their pitiful privations.

At one time they were given a small pig for meat. A chant was composed by some members of the group "Glorious, Glorious,—one little skinny pig for 2,164 of us; thank goodness there are no more of us."

The first American planes went overhead, September 25, 1944. They were enroute to bomb Manila. From that time on knowledge of the fighting came from the planes flying across their compound.

American intelligence officers had learned that at the 7:30 roll call, February 22, 1945, the Japanese had planned to kill all the prisoners. Accordingly before that time American planes dropped 150 paratroopers near the camp who with native guerilla troops freed the inmates of the camp.

AIR CARGO

CHICAGO—The zooming growth of air cargo is seen in steps taken by the 19 domestic airlines of the United States to set up equipment and schedules that will raise their capacity in the immediate post-war years by five-fold over the 1944 level, according to a survey by the Air Transport Association of America.

The airlines last year carried 202,879,000 pounds of mail, express and excess baggage, whereas the use of added planes on order or option will provide cargo space sufficient to handle about one billion pounds of cargo, ranging from jewelry and drugs to perishable foodstuffs and machinery parts.

The expanded fleet of passenger planes will provide much additional cargo space, with some of them having compartments for mail and freight which can be made larger as any particular passenger load grows smaller. All-cargo planes of war-time types are increasing in numbers, to be supplemented very soon by planes designed exclusively for cargo carrying, with features which will greatly expedite the speed and economy of loading and unloading.

Meanwhile plans are under way for expanding present pick-up systems, which operate without landings. New methods are being studied by airlines and manufacturers.

Already a unit has been developed allowing a plane in flight to pick up a loaded glider from the ground, making peacetime routine of one of the war's most dramatic exploits.

SARRINGHAUS IS STILL ON SQUAD

Halfback Scheduled To Take Part In Today's Drills After 'Quitting'

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6—Paul Sarringhaus, Ohio State's ace halfback in 1941-42 who lost his spot to two freshmen in recent games, was to decide today if he will quit the squad.

He was ready to quit after last Saturday's Northwestern game, in which Hal Daugherty and Jerry Krall did the playing and Sarringhaus did the bench-sitting, but Coach Carroll Widows refused to accept the decision. Yesterday, in an hour-long talk, Widows gave his 26-year-old backfield star "one hundred and one reasons why I shouldn't quit" according to Sarringhaus.

"I changed my mind for the time being," Sarringhaus said after the conference, "but I'll make a final decision Tuesday."

Widows was confident that his argument was persuasive.

"Sarringhaus should be out to practice," he said today.

The veteran running star sparked OSU teams to fine records in 1941 and 1942 before entering the Army. He was honorably discharged last Summer and returned to school, starting in the first three games. He suffered a shoulder injury in practice for the Purdue game and saw little action. Although recovered from his injury, he has been on the bench for most of the following two games.

"I don't believe Daugherty or Krall is better than I am," he said.

He said that regardless of the outcome of the dispute "I will not play any professional football this year." He said he would get his degree in physical education in December and intended to finish school.

He was highly publicized at opening of the season as the man the Buckeyes were depending on to carry Ohio State through to another Big Ten championship.

"Paul Sarringhaus is still a member of the Ohio State football squad," was the only statement Coach Carroll Widows made after the conference with the "Hamilton Hurricane."

Sarringhaus was quoted as saying: "All I ask is to play my share of Ohio State's last three games and a chance to prove my football playing ability, which I haven't been given in the last two games."

Sarringhaus said his "differences" with Widows have been brewing ever since the Purdue game. He denied Widows has accused him of being responsible for the defeat, but that he had voluntarily shouldered the blame for a missed block which resulted in a Boilermaker safety.

Since then "other matters" have built up, he said, with the climax being reached Saturday when he was used only a short time against Northwestern.

Sarringhaus said: "I don't care so much about Pittsburgh but I'd like to get to play a lot in the Illinois and Michigan games."

PICTURES SHOW

IRISH DID NOT GET SECOND TD

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 6—Gloom hung heavy over the battered and bruised Irish of Notre Dame today.

Four players were on the hospital list. Motion pictures apparently had proved the Irish didn't score a second touchdown against Navy in their 6-to-6 battle last Saturday. And Head Coach Hugh Devore arrived late today from West Orange, N. J., where he attended his mother's funeral.

The players viewed the pictures of the game yesterday but Line Coach Ken Stillely said no comment would come from Notre Dame until Devore returns. Meanwhile, pictures shown at the Football Writers' Assn. meeting in New York yesterday convinced skeptical sports writers there that the "questionable touchdown" was never scored and the 6-6 verdict was correct.

That was a bitter report to take for four Irish players especially. Frank Ruggiero, regular fullback who paced Notre Dame's attack against the Middies, was in the university infirmary with 13 stitches in his chin. John Panelli, reserve fullback, probably will be out of action for the remainder of the season with a shoulder separation.

Elmer Angaman, regular right halfback, lost 11 teeth in the first quarter, and Vince Scott, reserve guard, suffered a slight concussion.

Except for Panelli, the injured players were expected to be ready for Notre Dame's game against Army at New York this Saturday.

LAMBEAU SAYS CECIL ISBELL IS BEST PASSER

CHICAGO, Nov. 6—Coach Earl (Curly) Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers added new fuel to one of football's old arguments today when he named Cecil Isbell, Purdue head coach, as the game's greatest all-time passer.

"Isbell was a master at any range, short, medium or long ones," Lambeau said. "He could throw soft passes, bullet ones or feathery lobes."

"He's the best with Sid Luckman of the bears a close second and Sammy Baugh a long third."

Luckman is just about as good, Lambeau said, but not quite as versatile while Baugh doesn't toss the long ones to compare with Isbell.

Isbell quit professional football and the Packers three years ago in the prime of his career to become backfield coach at Purdue, where he first rose to stardom. He took over as head coach two years ago.

AIR CARGO

CHICAGO—The booming growth of air cargo is seen in steps taken by the 19 domestic airlines of the United States to set up equipment and schedules that will raise their capacity in the immediate post-war years by five-fold over the 1944 level, according to a survey by the Air Transport Association of America.

The airlines last year carried 202,879,006 pounds of mail, express and excess baggage, whereas the use of added planes on order or option will provide cargo space sufficient to handle about one billion pounds of cargo, ranging from jewelry and drugs to perishable foodstuffs and machinery parts.

The expanded fleet of passenger planes will provide much additional cargo space, with some of them having compartments for mail and freight which can be made larger as any particular passenger load grows smaller. All-cargo planes of war-time types are increasing in numbers, to be supplemented very soon by planes designed exclusively for cargo carrying, with features which will greatly expedite the speed and economy of loading and unloading.

Meanwhile plans are underway for expanding present pick-up systems, which operate without landings. New methods are being studied by airlines and manufacturers. Already a unit has been developed allowing a plane in flight to pick up a loaded glider from the ground, making peacetime routine of one of the war's most dramatic exploits.

SARRINGHAUS IS STILL ON SQUAD

Halfback Scheduled To Take Part In Today's Drills After 'Quitting'

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6—Paul Sarringhaus, Ohio State's ace halfback in 1941-42 who lost his spot to two freshmen in recent games, was to decide today if he will quit the squad.

He was ready to quit after last Saturday's Northwestern game, in which Hal Daugherty and Jerry Krall did the playing and Sarringhaus did the bench-sitting, but Coach Carroll Widows refused to accept the decision. Yesterday, in an hour-long talk, Widows gave his 26-year-old backfield star "one hundred and one reasons why I shouldn't quit" according to Sarringhaus.

"I changed my mind for the time being," Sarringhaus said after the conference, "but I'll make a final decision Tuesday."

Widows was confident that his argument was persuasive.

"Sarringhaus should be out to practice," he said today.

The veteran running star sparked OSU teams to fine records in 1941 and 1942 before entering the Army. He was honorably discharged last Summer and returned to school, starting in the first three games. He suffered a shoulder injury in practice for the Purdue game and saw little action. Although recovered from his injury, he has been on the bench for most of the following two games.

"I don't believe Daugherty or Krall is better than I am," he said.

He said that regardless of the outcome of the dispute "I will not play any professional football this year." He said he would get his degree in physical education in December and intended to finish school.

He was highly publicized at opening of the season as the man the Buckeyes were depending on to carry Ohio State through to another Big Ten championship.

"Paul Sarringhaus is still a member of the Ohio State football squad," was the only statement Coach Carroll Widows made after the conference with the "Hamilton Hurricane."

Sarringhaus was quoted as saying: "All I ask is to play my share of Ohio State's last three games and a chance to prove my football playing ability, which I haven't been given in the last two games."

Sarringhaus said his "differences" with Widows have been brewing ever since the Purdue game. He denied Widows has accused him of being responsible for the defeat, but that he had voluntarily shouldered the blame for a missed block which resulted in a Boilermaker safety.

Since then "other matters" have built up, he said, with the climax being reached Saturday when he was used only a short time against Northwestern.

Sarringhaus said: "I don't care so much about Pittsburgh but I'd like to get to play a lot in the Illinois and Michigan games."

PICTURES SHOW IRISH DID NOT GET SECOND TD

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 6—Gloom hung heavy over the battered and bruised Irish of Notre Dame today.

Four players were on the hospital list. Motion pictures apparently had proved the Irish didn't score a second touchdown against Navy in their 6-to-6 battle last Saturday. And Head Coach Hugh Devore arrived late today from West Orange, N. J., where he attended his mother's funeral.

The players viewed the pictures of the game yesterday but Line Coach Ken Stiley said no comment would come from Notre Dame until Devore returns. Meanwhile, pictures shown at the Football Writers' Assn. meeting in New York yesterday convinced skeptical sports writers there that the "questionable touchdown" was never scored and the 6-6 verdict was correct.

That was a bitter report to take for four Irish players especially. Frank Ruggiero, regular fullback who paced Notre Dame's attack against the Midgies, was in the university infirmary with 13 stitches in his chin. John Panelli, reserve fullback, probably will be out of action for the remainder of the season with a shoulder separation.

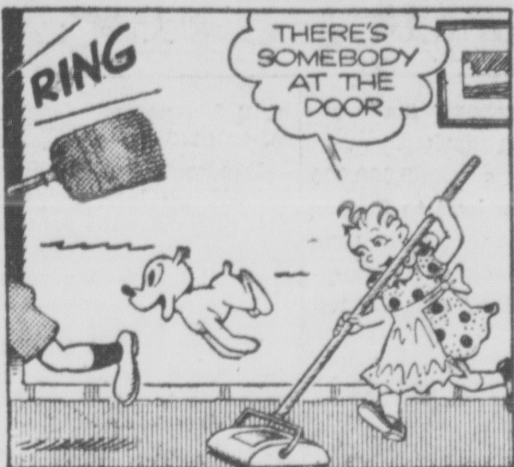

Elmer Angaman, regular right halfback, lost 11 teeth in the first quarter, and Vince Scott, reserve guard, suffered a slight concussion.

Except for Panelli, the injured players were expected to be ready for Notre Dame's game against Army at New York this Saturday.

HEIGEL POSTS 594 SCORE TO LEAD PIN LOOP

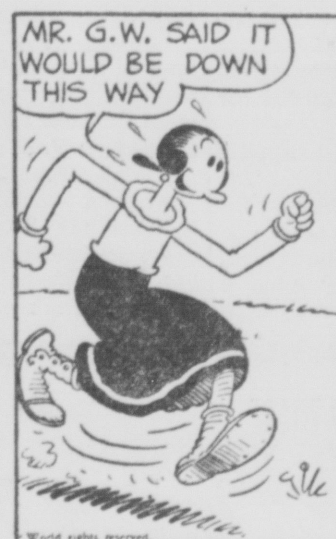

Fred Heigel again paced the Business Men's bowling league Monday night, hitting a 224 high game and 594 total. C. Root came up with a 566, second high.

NORTHS AND QUEEN

When rival amateur detectives from Wednesday night radio programs on rival networks compete with each other on a murder case on a single show, the killer has absolutely no possibility of escape and there is sure to be a lot of excitement and fun. Pamela and Jerry North are amazed when stalking a nightclub murderer to discover private detective Ellery Queen trailing them and the killer on their own comedy-mystery show, "The Adventures of Mr. and Mrs. North," Wednesday.

A FORTUNE HUNT

Why did victorious United Nations armies seize all the Nazi gold they could lay their hands on when Hitler's dream empire crumbled and fell early this year? Lieut. Commander Joel Fisher, who directed the fabulous hunt, will tell Morton Downey the reason and describe the search when he appears as "Personality of the Week"

Wednesday on the popular Irish tenor's noonday program.

JEWISH PROBLEM

The proposed establishment of Palestine as a Jewish state will be debated on "America's Town Meeting," in its broadcast Thursday with two rabbis on opposite sides of the question, "Should We Support the Establishment of a Jewish State in Palestine Now?" Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, national vice president of the Zionist Organization of America and member of the World Zionist executive committee, will join Edgar Ansel Mowrer, author, foreign correspondent and columnist, in supporting the affirmative. Speaking for the negative will be Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron, member of the executive committee of the National Conference of Christian Jews. He will be joined by a second speaker, presenting the Arabian viewpoint.

VICTORY JORY SLEUTH

Victory Jory, a star of the Broadway theatre, movies and radio, will be the guest armchair detective on the broadcast of Ellery Queen's "Adventure of the Message in Red," Wednesday. The master detective matches his brilliant intuition against a ruthless killer, who commits a series of apparently unrelated murders of perfectly innocent women on this Queen mystery which Victory Jory will attempt to solve before Ellery gives his solution.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Radio's "Amos 'n' Andy," played by Correll and Godden who have been partners for two decades, were once called "Sam 'n' Henry" when they broadcast years ago over a local Chicago station. At that time the boys used to rehearse in a small dressing room and during hot weather Correll shed his shirt and shoes to be more comfortable. One day Godden quietly carried off his partner's clothes when he wasn't looking and Correll went on the air informally garbed in his undershirt and in stocking feet!

Bob Burns is planning to take his program to New York for four Thursday broadcasts in late November and December.

Vocalist Carol Stewart, of Martin Hurl's "Beulah" Show, made her initial appearance as featured soloist of the evening at famed Hollywood Canteen this week—by request. A group of 50 service men, who attended the "Beulah" Show, were impressed with the voice and appearance of the pretty former sound effects girl and requested Canteen officials to invite her to the service men's center.

Clarence Hartzell, specialist in old man character roles who is heard frequently on "The Human Adventure," got his start in radio back in 1929. But it wasn't doing character parts. He was a member of a harmony duo that appeared on a West Virginia station in that year.

PLENTY OF GAME IS REPORTED IN SOME SECTIONS

New Regulations On Fur Bearing Animals Given By Game Wardens

With a tremendous increase in the sale of licenses, partly due to the great numbers of returning servicemen and shells becoming more and more plentiful, large numbers of Pickaway county hunters are expected to take the field when hunting season opens November 16.

"Last year's bad winter and an epidemic of illegal shooting hurt the game crop considerably, but lately game has been seen fairly plentiful and there should be enough to go around if hunters are consistent enough. Pheasants have been seen in large numbers in parts of the county, but not throughout the county as in the past," Irvin Patrick and Clarence Francis, game protectors have reported.

The hunting season for Pickaway county on pheasants and rabbits begins November 16 at 11 a. m. Hunting and trapping of raccoon and all fur-bearers will not begin until 6 p. m. November 16.

"Last year the trappers were permitted to begin before the hunters. This year in order to give both an even break, hunting and trapping will begin at the same time," Mr. Patrick said.

"One of the new regulations this year is that trappers, as well as hunters, must carry a white light visible all around the horizon, such as a lantern, while hunting or trapping at night," Mr. Francis announced.

"This new regulation was passed for the protection of the farmer. The lantern is to give the farmer knowledge that someone is on his place. In the past hunters at night have disturbed farmers and hunted on their farms without permission."

"Any trap set or placed for the taking of wild fur-bearers must have attached thereto a tag bearing the name and mailing address of the owner or the users of the trap, or the name and address can be stamped in the trap," the game protectors reminded.

"Last year dogs were not allowed to be run or trained prior to the hunting season after night. This year, however, there are no restrictions of this kind, the game protectors stated."

FRENCH TO GET FOOD, SUPPLIES

Million Tons To Leave U. S. Soon; Other Countries Receive Loans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—Some 125 Liberty ships will sail from the U. S. to France this month with more than 1,000,000 tons of French purchases in food, cotton, steel and other sorely needed supplies, it was learned today.

American officials expect this rate of delivery to continue—and probably increase—throughout the winter. Foodstuffs comprise a substantial part of the shipments.

On this basis, officials now estimate that the average Frenchman will subsist this winter on 2,400 calories daily, the minimum deemed necessary by doctors for sedentary—not active—persons.

This level may fall to 1,700 at times in the cities and rise to more than 3,000 in the country. The caloric diet of the average U. S. citizen is 3,500.

France does not receive aid from UNRRA, the United Nations Relief Agency, but is paying through credits and with some cash for every pound of supplies it receives from this country.

Certain smaller liberated nations which also buy their own supplies instead of seeking help from UNRRA face a better winter than their French neighbor, according to latest estimates here.

The average caloric level in Belgium is expected to be 3,250; Netherlands, 2,750, and Norway, 2,800. Both Sweden and Denmark have some exportable surpluses. Their caloric level is 3,000 and 2,900 respectively.

Current French shipments represent lend-lease supplies that were in the "pipeline" when V-J day came and additional goods bought by the French in a $30,000,000 cash outlay since V-J day.

They used this cash to buy in the last two months: $10,000,000 wheat; $6,000,000 coal; $5,000,000 petroleum products; $5,000,000 in raw materials for making tires; and smaller items like $300,000 for oils and margarines.

Lend-lease "pipeline" supplies amounted to $350,000,000. The French assumed indebtedness for this at 2 3/8 percent interest.

Supplies in the "pipeline" will be exhausted within six weeks, it was said. The flow to France then will represent purchases made entirely on the "open market."

Officials said a $550,000,000 export-import bank loan to France will be concluded shortly—in time to take up the slack in the supply flow as "pipeline" supplies begin running out.

Other loans through the export-import bank were said to be near completion:

Belgium—$55,000,000 at 2 3/8 percent interest for 30 years for lend-lease already programmed; $45,000,000 straight "recovery" loan at approximately 3 percent.

Norway—$50,000,000 "recovery" loan at 3 percent ready for signing and waiting for modification of U. S. stipulation that supplies be carried on U. S. ships.

Under discussion: Holland—$65,000,000 to the Netherlands East Indies for development oil and other resources; two $50,000,000 loans to Holland already have been announced—one at 2 3/8 percent interest and another at 3 percent.

Denmark — Renegotiation of $20,000,000 loan already made at 3 1/2 percent with aim of reducing interest rate to level of other "recovery" loans—3 percent.

It takes about 30 cubic feet of undecayed vegetable matter to make one cubic foot of coal.
